

Would you prefer to live in a traditional house or in a modern apartment building? Use specific reasons and details to support your choice.

Without a doubt, temptation of living in a modern apartment with its luxurious and comforting facilities is something irresistible, specifically in recent decades – triggered and enhanced by the developments in technologies and architecture. Despite all the luxuries of living in a modern flat, I still choose the traditional house as a place for living.

The privacy is the most important feature of any one's life. This privacy is to some extent restricted in apartments, for instance the elevator, the yard, swimming pool and the parking space are some of your living areas where you have to share them with your neighbors. Totally in contrast with the apartment, you have this chance to enjoy the privacy of a house and never to be disturbed by other people's presence in your property.

Moreover, although a house --specially a traditional one --has its own expenditure, its costs are more reasonable than the extra charges for living in a modern apartment these days. Many electricity–power–based features such as elevator, automatic doors, etc in an apartment can cost high–price bills for the owners; not to mention the maintenance cost of each of them. Once you admit leaving in a modern complex building, you have to tolerate and afford the costs proposed by the building board of directors.

To conclude, it might seem somewhat old–fashioned but living in a traditional house has got more advantages for many of us than a modern apartment and in my opinion, it is a better choice for those with normal incomes.
